

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

An embodiment of the invention provides a system and method for reducing power in MRAM. A RAM buffer is used to store information. The information stored in the RAM buffer is written to MRAM such that all storage cells connected to a selected wordline in the MRAM are written. In addition, the number of power-up sequences required to write information to the MRAM is reduced.